The Amazing Place - Yunnan

Noah C. Buonanno
Confucius Institute in Indianapolis

Wednesday, March 28, 2018, 12:00 p.m.
Confucius Institute Cavanaugh Hall Room 129

Yunnan, a province located in the far southwest corner of China, is a bountiful and beautiful land, a land where ancient mysteries and dynamic energy combine. Yunnan has been reputed as “South of the Rosy Clouds” and is home to Shangri-La, a beautiful earthly paradise. The topic will explore various scenic and historical places as well as its diverse ethnic minority cultures.

Noah Buonanno is an Office Manager for the Confucius Institute in Indianapolis. He has studied, travelled and worked in various locations in China and has a background in Cultural Anthropology with an emphasis on East Asian cultures. He enjoys learning about Chinese language and culture and has interests in international law, music theory and compositions.
