II. Course Description and Rationale:

This course is designed to build on the experiences and experiments of the previous two studio emphasis courses and to allow the student the opportunity to further develop an individual and effective body of work. Students should have developed an original and intensive practice by this point that allows for constant change and exploration, while also providing a useful framework within which to create sculpture.

Over the course of the semester the student will be working independently to develop a professional-level body of work.

Rationale: In order to be prepared to begin a career as a professional sculptor the student must achieve a high level of independence and self-motivation. The body of work created at this level should evidence awareness of contemporary theory as well as a highly individual set of interests, conceptual and formal concerns.

III. Educational Objectives:

During this course:

- Students will continue to build on an established original formal and conceptual language which will result in a cohesive body of work.
- Students will continue to experiment with materials and construction methods.
- Students will continue to conduct research specific to their fields of interest.
- Students will communicate their artistic intentions and motivations verbally and in writing, and will be able to analyze effectively the extent to which their work fulfilled their intentions.

IV. Course Content:
Course work consists of individual studio work, group and individual critiques, writing assignments, group discussions on readings and individual research. Students will continue to produce several sculptures over the course of the semester and to participate in the studio community. All completed work will be critiqued. Faculty will engage in conversations with the student regularly over the course of the semester to assess progress and to ensure constant development and engagement. Students will write statements describing their work and motivations. All students will be expected to be conducting constant research on historic and contemporary artists, and will lead a discussion with other students on a reading that they have chosen.

V. Required and Recommended Texts:

In addition to their personal research, which is expected to be extensive, students will be assigned readings and will be required to respond in group discussions. These readings will be selected based on their relevance to the topic of site-specific, audience-driven or commission-based work being undertaken that semester.

Students will provide each other with readings and will each lead a discussion with students and faculty members on the readings.

Selected essays and articles from current periodicals will also be provided by faculty members for both formal and informal discussion.

VI. Evaluation and Grading:

Each student’s work is evaluated twice during the semester: at midterm and at the end of the course. Student’s work will be evaluated based on overall artistic effectiveness, evidence of individual development and effort, and evidence of intensity of effort in exploring new concepts and forms. Work must be presented for evaluation on time for full credit. Late presentations will be graded down one letter grade. No midterm projects will be accepted more than 3 days late and no final projects will be accepted more than 1 day late.

Note: Graduate courses completed with grades below C (2.0) are not counted towards degree requirements, but such grades will be counted in calculating a graduate student’s grade point average.

Incomplete. An incomplete grade in this course will only be permitted in exceptional circumstances, such as a documented serious illness or injury. No one may have an incomplete simply to gain more time to complete course requirements.

Late Work: Projects and portfolios are due as specified unless an extension is requested and received at least two days before the due date. Projects and portfolios without an extension will be docked half a letter grade for each day late, including weekends.

CLASS PARTICIPATION
Consistent attendance is expected except in case of emergency or illness. More than two unexcused absences will result in a reduction of the course grade (1/2 a letter grade per absence).

Class participation is more than just attendance. It includes consistent preparation, active listening, and contributing to discussions and projects. Your grade for participation will be based on the following criteria:

1. Preparation: Did you read the required material thoughtfully and critically? Did you come to class with questions to ask and issues to consider? Have you prepared artistic work for presentation in a timely manner? Graduate students will be called upon to start discussion with thought-provoking questions from the readings—write these down in advance.

2. Engagement: Do you ask questions of all members of the class? Do your questions close the conversation, or stimulate it? Are they deliberate and relevant to the discussion? Do you try to apply the material you have learned, relating and synthesizing information with previous discussions, readings, and experiences, as well as other classes and intellectual interests.
3. Courtesy: Do you listen to others as they speak? Are you considerate of opposing viewpoints? Do you contribute to an atmosphere of mutual respect?

Learning Disabilities
Accommodations will be given to any student needing accommodations because of disability, provided the student has registered with Adaptive Educational Services (AES) at IUPUI and completed the appropriate forms issued by that office. Students requesting disability-related accommodations should contact AES at (317) 274-3241. AES is located in Cavanaugh Hall (CA) 001E.

VII. Bibliography
See section V above for required and recommended texts, and individual weeks for additional articles and book chapters.

VIII. Cheating and Plagiarism

Cheating and plagiarism undermine the very principles upon which higher education is founded. Any violation of the academic policies of IUPUI is forbidden and will result in a failing grade for the course and a letter to the Dean requesting further investigation.

Cheating: A student must not use or attempt to use unauthorized assistance, materials, information, or study aids in any academic exercise, unless the instructor specifically has authorized such assistance. A student must not allow others to conduct research or to prepare any work for him or her without advance authorization from the instructor to whom the work is being submitted. A student must not collaborate with other persons on a particular project and submit a copy of a written report that is represented explicitly or implicitly as the student’s individual work. A student must not submit substantial portions of the same academic work for credit more than once without permission of the instructor to whom the work is being submitted. A student must not alter a grade or score in any way.

Fabrication: A student must not falsify or invent any information or data in an academic exercise including, but not limited to, records or reports, laboratory results, historical documentation, and citations to the sources of information.

Plagiarism: A student must not adopt or reproduce ideas, words, or statements of another person without appropriate acknowledgement. A student must give credit to the originality of others and acknowledge an indebtedness whenever he or she: quotes another person’s actual words, either oral or written; paraphrases another person’s words, either oral or written; uses another person’s idea, opinion, or theory; or borrows facts, statistics, illustrative material, unless the information is common knowledge.
