Facilitator: Mary Beth Myers, Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis

2.4 Stressed is Desserts Spelled Backwards

Stewart 320

How many of you are feeling $#*&@ $#!! (That's upper case lingo for stressed out, on edge, etc.?) While admissions and registrar officers are asked to do more and more, juggle more balls, walk a finer line, climb a steeper learning curve, and stretch thinner, . before we know it, Bam! Stress hits. . .and for many of us, unfortunately the impact affects us emotionally and physically. So. . . come to this "calming, soothing" session, one that will make us better aware of how to turn those stressful moments into positive actions, stress management and wellness. Hey, I bet a sweet dessert will be there greeting you!

Presenter: Tina Stone, Indiana University Kokomo

Facilitator: Lesa Beals, Purdue university

Sessions Five

8:45 a.m. – 9:45 a.m.

5.1 TransferIN and the Private Colleges of Indiana

Stewart 204

What does TransferIN mean for you, your students and your institution? Explore the benefits and challenges experienced by private institutions as they participate in the Indiana Core Transfer Library (CTL). Hear from colleagues who served on the Statewide Transfer and Articulation Committee; learn more about using CTL, and come with your questions.

Presenter: Patrick Alles, Director of Research and Technology, Independent Colleges of Indiana
Ann Trost, Registrar, Valparaiso University
Karen Roorbach, Indiana Wesleyan university
Facilitator: Corrie McGuckin, Ivy Tech Community College-Columbus

5.2 Are You an Old Fogey?

Stewart 318

When you see a “Baby-boomer” talking to a twenty-something with multiple body piercings, it may seem that the generation gap in our universities is bigger than ever. Are you finding it difficult to communicate with students and co-workers who are either a lot older or younger than you? There’s been a lot of buzz lately about the dynamic created by having four generations in the workforce and in the colleges and universities. Come to this session to get some tips on how to “connect/communicate” with the younger generation without embarrassing yourself!

Presenter: Daysha Jackson, Indiana University Purdue University Ft. Wayne
Facilitator: Brooke Worland, Franklin College

Tuesday, October 27, 2009 (cont'd)

5.3 Review of Academic Forgiveness

Stewart 202

“Academic forgiveness,” “clemency,” “fresh start”—are all terms for adjusting a student record. Come hear a panel discussion representing the proposal phases, newly implanted phases, and “old pro” phase of this type of policy and issues to consider if a student applies for the policy.

Presenters: Lori Brubaker, Indiana Institute of Technology
Art Leak, Anderson University
Bob Kubat, Purdue University

Facilitator: Melanie Hough, Ivy Tech Community College-Central Indiana

5.4 Automating the Transcript Process: Pitfalls and Payoff

Stewart 320

Presenter: Ken Kirkpatrick, DePauw University

Facilitator: Lisa Mosele Scully, Indiana University

Sessions six

10:00 – 11:00 a.m.

6.1 Financial Aid 101: What Admissions and Registrar Need to Know

Stewart 202

Satisfactory academic progress and classroom non-attendance are just a few very important issues for many offices, but for different reasons. Come hear why it's important basic information, and how it impacts the financial aid office on your campus. Also, what generic financial information can Admissions and Registrar offices give students?

Presenters: Deb Roy, Indiana University Purdue University Ft. Wayne
Travis Blume, Ivy Tech Community College-East Central

Facilitator: Melanie Hough, Ivy Tech Community College-Central Indiana

6.2 Is High School Really Worth College Credit?

Stewart 318

The state of Indiana initiated a program in recent years for colleges and universities to offer college credit to high school students across the state. Come and participate in the panel discussion from private and public universities who have implemented programs. Issues explored will range from instructional certification to transcription of the credit on the academic record and much more!

Presenters: Lila hammer, Manchester College
Lynn Lupold, Fellow for High School Networks, Center of Excellence in Leadership of Learning
Ted Leahey, Director of Advance College Project, Indiana University

Facilitator: Corrie McGuckin, Ivy Tech Community College-Columbus

6.3 How to Succeed in Non Term Programs in a Term World

Stewart 204

Are you familiar with the phrase “Make it fit,” and “We need more flexibility in courses to accommodate enrollment and faculty”? Come hear how Indiana Wesleyan University met challenges and has overcome obstacles to accommodate non term programs. This session will share experiences in developing policies, procedures, and systems, and discuss the good, the bad, and the ugly.

Presenter: Audrey Hahn, Indiana Wesleyan University

Facilitator: Nancy Cronk, Ball State University

6.4 Movin’ On Up: Getting Along with the Neighbors

Stewart 320

This session will be an interactive session demonstrating tactics for creating a better team atmosphere based on the MBTI. “Neighbors” include co-workers, students/parents, faculty/staff, supervisors/supervisees. . .regardless of who the “neighbor” is, understanding your team’s dynamics is important in developing positive relationships and communication with your “neighbors.”

Presenter: Linden Petrin, Purdue University

Facilitator: Dan Adams, Ivy Tech Community College

Thanks for coming to Purdue University and have a safe trip home!
