

Nathan Houser (b. 1944) is Professor of Philosophy at Indiana University in Indianapolis where he is Director of the Institute for American Thought. He also directs the Peirce Edition Project. Houser earned his Ph. D. in Philosophy from the University of Waterloo in Canada and came to IUPUI in 1983. He was the recipient of a Fulbright-Hays Award to study in England and is the author of many articles and the editor or co-editor of several books. He has served as President of the Charles S. Peirce Society and is President Elect of the Semiotic Society of America. Houser's research and teaching focuses on Peirce studies, pragmatism, semiotics, philosophy of text, and philosophy of mind. Since 1993, he has been the General Editor for the Indianapolis critical edition of Peirce's writings and he has co-edited the two-volume Essential Peirce and Studies in the Logic of Charles Sanders Peirce. His publications include "Peirce's General Taxonomy of Consciousness" (1983; revised and expanded 2000); "Toward a Peircean Semiotic Theory of Learning" (1987); "La Structure formelle de l'expérience selon Peirce" (1989); "On Peirce's Theory of Propositions" (1992); "On 'Peirce and Logicism'" (1993); "The Semiotics of Critical Editing: Is There a Future for Critical Editions?" (1997); "Peirce's Pragmatism and Analytic Philosophy; Some Continuities" (2002); "Pragmatism and the Loss of Innocence" (2003); "The Scent of Truth" (2005); "Peirce in the 21st Century" (2005); and "Peirce's Contrace Fallibilism" (2006). He has been awarded a number of research grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and from other foundations or agencies.